Product Importance and Placement

Our Compass Insurance products are designed to provide financial assistance during times of stress.

The best practice for Compass Insurance product placement is to be offered immediately following the medial plan. Compass Insurance products are most closely associated with Medical because of the nature of the benefit triggers. The products were designed to provide financial assistance to the employee during times of stress. These products pay benefits directly to the employee and can be used for anything they choose, including deductibles and co-pays.

If Compass Insurance isn't enrolled after medical, the employee doesn't always understand the value that Compass Insurance brings to their medical choice.

Focusing on the employee enrollment experience first and foremost, we prefer to:

- Enroll Medical/HSA plans first, then
- Enroll in Compass Critical Illness Insurance or Compass Hospital Confinement Indemnity Insurance, then
- Compass Accident Insurance

Naming Compass Insurance Products

Compass Insurance references always begin with a capital "C" and be should be consistent with capitalization with Medical. Our products should always be capitalized, i.e. Compass Critical Illness Insurance. Compass Accident Insurance etc.

Minimum Participation Requirement

Your requested coverages may not be issued if participation during the initial enrollment is less than the required number of covered employees.

NY Employees In a Non-NY Situs

ReliaStar Life Insurance Company is not authorized to transact the business of insurance in New York. Your employer has contracted for group insurance in a state other than New York

Building Compass Critical Illness Insurance* (CI) Products

Note: Tobacco status must be captured for employee and spouse Compass Critical Illness Insurance records on the eligibility file. Tobacco status is a required and key element to capture in the enrollment process both to calculate rates and to transmit on the eligibility file. The enrollment system must ask if the Compass Critical Illness Insurance applicant has used tobacco in any form during the last 24 months. Employee and spouse applicant records on the eligibility file are required as either "Yes" or "No". Tobacco status for children will always be "N/A". Tobacco information is needed and required on the eligibility file.

- Note: If the state has state-specific language in the "Form Title, Insurer Name and Address" section, that information should be required

- Product Description: Compass Critical Illness Insurance
- If displaying Carrier Name, Insurer Name should be: ReliaStar Life Insurance Company
- Fraud Warning and Payroll Deduct Authorization should be included as part of enrollment confirmation process. If you don't have standard language, please see the sample below:

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS AND AUTHORIZATIONS

Insurance benefits are contingent on proof of loss. Benefits may require medical information from your health care provider.

To the best of my knowledge and belief the information on this form is correct. I understand that false or inaccurate information may result in the termination of coverage or the nonpayment of benefits. I authorize and instruct my Employer to deduct from my pay each pay period the premium due for my insurance coverage purchased through ReliaStar Life Insurance Company. This authorization and assignment will remain in effect until revoked by me in writing to my Employer. I understand that my coverage begins on the effective date assigned by ReliaStar Life Insurance Company, provided I am in active employment.

This application is part of the Policy and subject to the terms and conditions of the Policy. I understand that no agent, representative or employee of ReliaStar Life Insurance Company, my Employer or any other entity may change or waive the requirements of this application, or the terms of the Policy, the Certificate or any riders, except as specifically set forth in the Policy.

Compass Insurance Eligibility File and Premium Reporting

The Compass Insurance eligibility file is used to facilitate efficient claims processing. The eligibility data provided allows our claims examiners to identify the amount and status of coverage for an individual insured.

At a minimum the eligibility file should be submitted twice per year, but we most often receive these files on a monthly, weekly or bi-weekly basis. The estimated timeline will be discussed in the technical call between Voya EB and the file vendor and shared with all parties so clear implementation expectations can be established.

Compass Insurance Eligibility files include enrollment, census, plan, effective dates and dependent demographic data.

- Voya EB can receive all Compass Insurance products on one file for the same employer group.
- Best practice will have Voya EB receiving full eligibility files from the employee groups on a regular basis.
- Flat text file (.csv) containing an individual record for each dependent that includes census, plan information.

Sample Premium Report

The case-specific premium report will be provided by your account manager in the implementation process. Attached is a sample premium report to help aide in the discussions.

If there are separate individuals sending the eligibility file and premium file, we suggest a separate user ID and password be used for transmission.

REGARDING ACCURATE AND TIMELY REPORTING OF ELIGIBILITY CHANGES VIA THE ONGOING FILE FEED

We rely on accurate, timely reporting of changes on the eligibility file. These changes include:

- Employment terminations for employee records
- Individual benefit terminations for employee and dependent records
- New hires, adding/changing coverage due to life events, demographic changes, inc. dependents.
- This also requires full-file reporting for all currently eligibile employees and dependents.

Our questions regarding your file:

- Will your system capture and relay these changes on the weekly/bi-weekly/semi-monthly/monthly file to Voya?
- Will you validate the data and correct any issues before sending to Voya?

Compass Insurance Eligibility File Implementation Expectations

The Compass Insurance eligibility file is used to facilitate efficient claims processing. In the event that the effective date of the coverage is prior to the eligibility file being in place, a paper claims process will be used and our claims representatives will work with the benefits contacts at the employer to confirm eligibility.

If during the implementation process for an eligibilty file, it is determined that a paper claims process will be needed until the file is in production, we want to have clear communication and expectations in place.

The following table provides a clear overview of what technical partners and vendors can expect while working with our Technical Services Team.

If…	Then…	Communication Point
The enrollment period has just started or ended…	The technical team partners with the file vendor to set-up and test the eligibility file and validate the platform. Depending on the time frame between the enrollment end and the effective date of coverage, the client will likely need to use an interim paper claims and portability form process until the eligibility file has been put into production…	Voya will communicate to the client regarding the possibility of a paper claims and portability form process until the enrollment build has been validated and/or the eligibility test file has been put into production. Voya Account Managers will furnish the necessary materials and walk through the paper process with the client.
The ETA that was provided by vendor/client for the eligibility file has been missed or there is no clear timline on receipt of a file by Voya …	The vendor/client will need to provide an updated ETA for the eligibility test/production file. A possibility exists that the client will need to submit paper claims and portability form process…	Voya EB will communicate to the client regarding the possibility of a paper claims and portability form process. Voya EB Account Managers will furnish the necessary paper claims materials and will walk through the paper process with the client.
If an eligibility test file is not received within six weeks prior to the effective date or the agreed-upon transmission method is no longer viable…	A strong likelihood exists that the client will need to submit paper claims and portability form process…
If three eligibility test files have been received, reviewed, and outstanding issues with data integrity and/or transmission persist…	A strong probability exists that the client will need to submit paper claims until the issue(s) have been resolved. After three test files have been received and file issues persist, a long-term solution involving a paper process may be needed until a file can be delivered without issue…
If within two weeks prior to the coverage effective date a production eligibility file has not been put in place…	Voya Employee Benefits will confirm that client human resource staff are prepared to begin a paper claims process and portability form…	Voya EB will communicate to the client regarding the need for of a paper claims and portability form process until the electronic file is in production. We will confirm the paper claims materials are available for the client.

File Transfer Options

Voya EB offers three methods of transferring files securely to and from outside business contacts. One of the following three options must be chosen to automate a secured transfer of the Enrollment files.

1. SFTP - The SFTP (Secure File Transfer Protocol) is the preferred method and performs all operations over an encrypted SSH (Secure Shell protocol) transport. It is very similar to FTP but everything is encrypted during transit, so there is no need for extra encryption on the file. This method is easily automated. Requirements:
    a. Outside client must have an sftp client on their end to send files to Voya.
    b. Outside client must have ssh installed to receive files from Voya.
    c. Client IT contact information.
    d. Client IT resources must be available for SFTP setup.
    e. File detail agreed upon by Voya and client.

2. FTP with PGP Encryption - This method uses straight FTP to transfer files to and from an FTP Lockbox. It is extremely easy to automate transmissions on both sides using this method. Requirements:
    a. Outside client must have an FTP client on their end to send files to Voya EB.
    b. Client IT contacts information.
    c. Client IT resources must be available for FTP setup.
    d. Voya hosted - Voya will supply UserID and Password along with URL and file naming standards Voya and client agree upon.
    e. All files must be encrypted with pgp or a pgp compatible product, prior to transmission.
    f. File detail agreed upon by Voya and client.

3. Secure Web Transfer - This method uses https with SSL encryption for transferring files to and from a secure transfer site. It is extremely user friendly allowing our clients an easy but secure way to upload and download files via a Voya-hosted website. Requirements:
    a. Client contact information.
    b. Voya Hosted – Voya will supply User ID and password along with URL and file naming standards Voya and client agree upon.
    c. File detail agreed upon by Voya and client.

Note: E-mail attachments will not be accepted for production or test purposes due to security issues and automation requirements.

Frequently Asked Questions and other Important Information

The following are frequently asked questions and best practices that will assist our clients and partners with building our products on their enrollment systems.

Question: What is Voya EB's preferred method of file transmission for ongoing files such as the eligibility file?
Answer: SFTP file transmission is the preferred method. Other options for file transmission are available and can be requested if desired or if your system is unable to meet this preference.

Question: Does the client have to provide an eligibility/enrollment file? If so how often?
Answer: Yes, We require the client to send at least two eligibility/enrollment files per year. The client also has the option to pass an on-going eligibility/enrollment file. Voya EB has a proprietary file layout that will be reviewed in the technical call. The best practice for an employer would be to send eligibility/enrollment files on the same frequency as the rest of their eligibility/enrollment files for other coverage's. (i.e. weekly, Biweekly Monthly etc.)

Question: Where should the Compass Insurance products be in the enrollment flow?
Answer: The best practice for Compass Insurance product placement is to be offered immediately following the medial plan. These products are designed to protect and enhance the employee's medical plan choice.

Question: Does Voya EB provide marketing materials that can be hosted on the enrollment system for employee education and information?
Answer: Yes, brochures are available to be used for each product for employee education. In addition, we have videos that introduce each Compass Insurance product. The video links and marketing brochure PDF's are contained in the zip file that can be sent once the employer's plan design is established.

Question: What are the plan rules? When can a person enroll and when can't they enroll in Compass Insurance products?
Answer: Compass Insurance products are self-administered plans. Employees can enroll during their initial enrollment period, during open enrollment or for life events. Late entrants are not allowed.

Question: Can an employee enroll in Compass Insurance products when having a life event (birth, marriage, etc.)?
Answer: Yes, the life events best practice for Compass Insurance products is to mirror the client's medical life event rules.

Question: Do we have to reconcile our payroll against the Voya EB monthly invoice?
Answer: No, The Compass Insurance products are self-billed plans for premium payment.
